

The Fire Ceasefire of 2020

I am a Los Angeleno, and I am requesting Mayor Eric Garcetti and city councilmembers allocate 5% of the Los Angeles Police Department budget, and immediately equip local law enforcement with blunts not batons.

It is our responsibility as citizens to provide Peace Officers with tools other than force. Let us collectively call for the armories of Los Angeles Police Departments to be filled with a weapon that has never killed a single American, and honors the fallen soldiers on both sides of The War On Drugs. Today, every American is reflecting on the cloth from which we are cut, let us not forget the literal fabric on which our Constitution was drafted.

The data shows most Americans agree on Cannabis.

During this time of crisis, in the preservation of life, and love of country...we must incentivizing law enforcement to distribute and consume cannabis purchased from struggling Los Angeles small businesses.

This act of rebellion by law enforcement will build trust with the communities they swore to protect and serve. Vulnerability will carve out a desperately needed ceasefire, providing the time and space for Los Angeles leadership, law enforcement, and protesters to acknowledge who we are, and understand what we have done to each other.

We can never forget, but we can heal.

Los Angeles can immediately allow Cannabis into all of our correctional facilities within city limits, for guards and prisoners alike. Our mayor and city council members can seize this moment, choosing to lead California's conversation about ending mass incarceration and mass supervision. We can finally rehabilitate what it means to be Californian, by clearly defining what it means to be an American.

Fan the flames of justice by sparking a conversation of reconciliation.

We are better than this.

Considering the threat of Covid-19, economic disparity, and police brutality, at 4:20 p.m. every day, the Los Angeles Police Department responds to peaceful protest in peacetime uniforms, ready to walk, learn, and burn with any Los Angeleno willing to do the same.

We must all burn something to rise from the ashes stronger, let it not be our communities.

We are more than uniforms.

We are more than flags.

We are more than anthems.

We are together.

It is time to pass the peace pipe America.
